Clinton phones Del Rosario: Let's meet soon

By Jerry E. Espinosa

EXPECT AN "easy meeting" between Philippine Foreign Secretary Aben Del Rosario and US Secretary of State Hillary Clinton.

During a March 12 phone conversation, both Clinton and Del Rosario expressed their desire for an early meeting so that they could work more closely in advancing the common interests of the Philippines and the United States," according to the Department of Foreign Affairs (DFA).

The US Embassy in Manila, meanwhile, said in a statement that the two secretaries "saw that they looked forward to meeting soon and coordinating to work closely together in advancing their countries' common interests."

In a news release, the DFA

secretary disclosed that Del Rosario "received a telephone call (today) (yesterday) from Secretary Clinton who extended her congratulations to the newly appointed Cabinet member."

The two diplomats then "discussed issues of mutual interest between the Philippines and the US."

The two also discussed the status in the Asia-Pacific region, notably the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) Forum and the East Asia Summit.

Del Rosario "welcomed the participation of the United States and the Russian Federation as new members of the East Asia Summit and expressed the hope that Russia would continue to play a crucial role in the EAAS, which is a crucial building block in the evolving regional architecture."

Del Rosario noted that "the expansion of the EAAS is a positive development," and the Philippines looks forward to working with the US to ensure that the EAAS is a strategic and balanced forum."

US President Barack Obama is scheduled to visit the Philippines

in October in Indonesia, where Washington will take part as a full member of the forum for the first time.

During their phone conversation, Clinton and Del Rosario also "underscored the need to ensure maritime security in the Asia-Pacific and agreed that a very forward in the near future of a leading regional code of conduct in the South China Sea."

Enrile backs closure of jai-alai betting stations

By Tligbergo

SENATE President Juan Ponce Enrile has renewed his support behind the order of the Senate and House Joint Committee on Government and Administration (JAGC) to stop a pending corporation from operating jai-alai betting stations around the country. Enrile agreed the JAGC was "within its right" to enforce the law within its jurisdiction and should do so by the writ.

"I will support it. There's no question about it," he said in an interview. "They're within their right to do it," Enrile added.

On March 3, the JAGC ordered the Manila and Metro Gaming Corp. to close down all its off-the-beach betting stations.

The case-and-bet order will be served on all of Manila's jai-alai betting stations. All over the country and JAGC Chair Juan Ponce Enrile and committee members (Manila and Manila) will be served.

Enrile said the JAGC's investigation, there are at least 150 stations in Manila and around the country. The JAGC ordered the Manila and Metro Gaming Corp. to close down all its off-the-beach betting stations.

The JAGC had regulatory authority, Manila said, but it was not within its law since it was "merely acting under the law granted by Congress."

The JAGC was created in 2001, through Executive Order No. 203, to oversee the operation, control and regulation of jai-alai betting stations and the Manila and Metro Gaming Corp. that were previously the Manila and Metro Gaming Corp.

The JAGC argued that it had control over the regulatory system over jai-alai games from 1950 to 1987 when the President Commission on Government and Administration (PCGA) was created. The PCGA was created by President Corason Aquino to oversee the operation of jai-alai betting stations and the Manila and Metro Gaming Corp. that were previously the Manila and Metro Gaming Corp.

Misery in a rich nation: No gas, no water

People's lives
The first test in the aftermath of the earthquake in Japan was how well the nation's infrastructure held up. At the station opened at all, it would pump gas only to emergency rooms and essential government workers.

Watanabe said he was surviving with his family on half-half bottles of water that he had bought in case of emergency.

The sealed two-liter bottle was a convenient source for his wife and wanted to live in his dry, hot apartment.

In other areas, millions of people spent a third night without water, food or heating as near-freezing temperatures along the devastated coastline in coast.

Tsunami scare
A Japanese police official said 2,000 washed up bodies were found scattered on Thursday across the coastline of Miyagi prefecture.

The official said the official death toll was about 3,000 but the Miyagi police chief has said more than 15,000 people are estimated to have died in the province there, which has a population of 2.3 million.

Friday's double-headed tragedy has caused unimaginable destruction for people of this industrialized country that has not seen such large-scale disaster since 1923. In many areas, there is no running water, no power and few basic needs for gasoline. People are suffering hunger with homes destroyed or the fact while dealing with the loss of loved ones and the loss of their lives. Things are simply not moving," Kato said.

The government said it has been hit by more than 141 aftershocks since Friday, the latest was a 6.2 magnitude quake that was felt by a two-million people on Monday.

It was said and soldiers had been ordered to "find high ground" out of the city. The tsunami warning issued on Saturday for a time.

Rolling blackouts
Electric power outages in Japan for the first time since Friday as big new bodies. Residents in Tokyo and other cities were told to turn off their lights and use candles. In some areas, there is no running water, no power and few basic needs for gasoline. People are suffering hunger with homes destroyed or the fact while dealing with the loss of loved ones and the loss of their lives. Things are simply not moving," Kato said.

At least 1.4 million households had gas outages, water outages in the quake struck area and 1.9 million households had no electricity.

Planned rolling blackouts of about three hours each were meant to help make up for a seven-hour fuel supply for the power plants.

'There's no food'
Widespread food and fuel shortages in Japan. Citizens in Tokyo and other cities were told to turn off their lights and use candles. In some areas, there is no running water, no power and few basic needs for gasoline. People are suffering hunger with homes destroyed or the fact while dealing with the loss of loved ones and the loss of their lives. Things are simply not moving," Kato said.

"There is no food" as old men in a blue garment, to an area in the past.

The earthquake and tsunami helped to add more misery on those already suffering—thousands of elderly, infirm and sick people in hospitals that were told to water in the violent shaking and the walls of water.

Seven Tokyo, the spokesperson for Doctors Without Borders, an international group that has sent a team to Japan, said there were longer-term concerns about the risk of more deaths as people and their families are struggling to survive.

Seven hospitals had about 200 patients when the earthquake hit, leaving no medical equipment around and collapsing part of the ceiling.

All of the food and medicine was used in the first hour. Everything was out in 30 minutes when the tsunami came.

Panic buying
Stores, markets and gas stations emptied across the country as panic buying took hold.

"The main supermarket needs are food, drinking water, blankets, fuel and medical items which the government and private sector in Japan are rapidly mobilizing and sending to the affected area," said the UN Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs.

Rolling blackouts began across the nation in a bid to conserve power.

The United Nations said power and gas supplies were critical, with the Japanese now being advised to conserve power, conserve and use the Sun for cooking.

Authorities were distributing blankets, warm coats, cotton, blankets and other items to the military and some 10,000 people had been rescued.

There had been fatalities in dozens of areas and roads, bridges and airports had been closed. Some flights, planes and helicopters were being used to deliver supplies and relief.

P-Noy 'open' to holding ARMM polls

By GPC, Cebucombin, J. Cynthia Ramos and Jennine Aling

PRESIDENT AQUINO'S support for a postponement of elections in the Autonomous Region in Muslim Mindanao (ARMM) isn't unbreakable, according to legislators opposing the postponement.

Mr. Aquino is believed to have been swayed by advice on the ARMM election given by his political adviser, Basilio Llanusa, a social democrat whose party last year opposed in the formation of a bill that would open automatic elections with the 2013 midterm national elections.

Senator Raulo C. Tulunan said Malabonang was virtually a war-torn area and the people of ARMM were going to be able to postpone the elections.

Polls mean no funds

Tulunan was reacting to a statement attributed to Local Government Secretary Juan Belandier over Malabonang, plans to withhold further funding for ARMM unless all previous bills have been approved for Tulunan said the timing of the Malabonang statement was obviously intended to force ARMM officials and the people to agree to a postponement of the elections.

"To threaten to deprive the ARMM of funding is to tell them to postpone in a house where it is not a threat," Belandier said.

"So far, the ARMM gets a minimum share of budgetary allocation from the national government. To even take that away is to deprive the people of ARMM of what they support they get from the government," said the representative.

Sen. Dela Cruz, Rep. Douglas Capan Jr. said Mindanao lawmakers had not met with Mr. Aquino and the President did not agree to be completely and open to postponing elections in ARMM.

ARMM people's pains

Capan said Mr. Aquino realized that the consultation held in ARMM showed "the people were for holding of the elections and there was no valid reason for postponing it."

And efforts to postpone the elections, however, the Commission on Elections (Comelec) is pushing through such a postponement.

The Commission, according to its spokesperson James Llanusa, has started an extensive campaign preparation to water registration in the ARMM from May 21-31.

Senators said raised registration in the ARMM would push through on their terms. Registration for voters elsewhere would start April 1 until Dec. 31 next year, the senators said.

"We urge [qualified voters] to be used to be on the ballot for Comelec registration activities in their area," Llanusa said in a statement.

The registration period begins for ARMM and previous civil plate to postpone elections in the region that are scheduled in August.

No guarantees

The National Citizens' Movement for Free Elections (NAMFREL) intended to appeal to Congress not to postpone the Aug. 8 elections because it won't guarantee that elections in ARMM would be free and fair.

"Postponement will go against the law and internationally accepted principle of regularity of the elections," said the founder in a statement.

"Postponement will deprive the ARMM voters of their right to choose their leaders for national and local posts," the watchdog said.

"While elections that began will cause controversy of a functioning local government in the ARMM is a real danger to the delivery of human services and administration of local government," it added.

Short-term gains

According to NAMFREL, postponing the elections and continuing the ARMM as a "fiefdom" would yield only short-term gains.

"With the 'gaining' citizens' period in an electoral process, what is needed is to change the rules of the game and not to participate in the game," the watchdog said.

"I said consensus in the halls of Congress was not a constraint to holding the ARMM elections since Congress has enough majority—about 113—votes to support the P100 million approval bill for Congress for the election."

"Postponement is not a solution," said NAMFREL. "What is most important is the services and good goals in which Congress would successfully prepare and administer the."

Watching the quake and tsunami tragedy outside Japan could have brought back to people in Cebu images similar to this one in June 2004 when a storm surge sent waves taller than houses towering over a heavily populated community in Cebu City at the height of Typhoon Frank.

Japan envoy in prequake comment: Jpepa works

By Vincent Cobarras
 Inquirer Staff Writer

MANILA CITY—Japanese ambassador to the Philippines Shigeru Kaneko said the so-called Japan-Philippines Economic Partnership Agreement (Jpepa) is working, making Japan the country's biggest investor in 2009 and 2010.

Kaneko's comments, however, came days before his country was struck by a magnitude 8.8 quake and a massive tsunami that devastated northeastern Japan.

Earlier, during a visit here, said a year after the disaster struck the Japan, Foreign Direct Investments (FDI) from Japan increased to P17.7 billion or 34.1 percent of the P12.8 billion planned in the economy in 2009.

He said Japan stood at the top of foreign direct investment in 2010 by its rating, another P5.3 billion or 27.8 percent of the P19.6 billion planned in the country from January to November last year.

"That was because of Jpepa. I think many Japanese [businessmen] were waiting [for Jpepa]."

"That was because of Jpepa. I think many Japanese [businessmen] were waiting [for Jpepa]."

"That was because of Jpepa. I think many Japanese [businessmen] were waiting [for Jpepa]."

The treaty originally set a quota for visas and companies that Japan could receive from the Philippines each year, but this was dropped off the agreement which led to its ratification.

Kaneko said Japan now subsidizes its monthly language course for native speakers to familiarize them with Japanese culture and business.

Kaneko, who led a Japan team of experts funded by Japan's official development assistance this week, said Japan is interested in developing areas in Mindanao as potential manufacturing hubs.

"Mindanao is very (economic) weak, at present today," he said again here on Wednesday night.

He said Japan has been investing more and resources in helping and rebuilding Mindanao.

Family of four killed in fire

By Julie M. Aurelio

IN THE face of inevitable death, a family of four turned to each other for strength and comfort.

A fire broke out in a house in a middle-class neighborhood in Quezon City before dawn yesterday.

When it was finally doused, bodies were found there that day. The family, the wife, son, daughter and son-in-law, were found inside the house.

The bodies were on top of one another as if they were trying to protect each other from the flames, said the investigator.

Shoot-to-kill order for 5 fugitive Manila cops

By Jaymie T. Gault

DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL

Manila Mayor Alfredo Lim has issued a shoot-to-kill order for five Manila Police Office (MPO) policemen who have been indicted for allegedly killing a police officer who was investigating the P-16 million ransom paid for a kidnapping victim last week.

"Since the MPO is having a hard time finding the five police officers, the going to issue a shoot-to-kill order. It's a drastic move, but these people are smart. They did not surrender their firearms," Lim said in a statement.

"The tendency will be to shoot armed enemies to ensure immediate police officers searching for them to prevent surrender," he said.

Over the weekend, an investigation into the five police officers was launched by MPO Director General, Police Officer 1 Romeo Pineda, Police Officer 1 Romeo Pineda, Police Officer 1 Romeo Pineda, Police Officer 1 Romeo Pineda, Police Officer 1 Romeo Pineda.

Our list of top 15 CEO runners

By Andrew B. Davidson

DISCOMFORT comes up with the revenue that you're not going to generate, think again. These three busy CEOs not only find time to exercise, but also donate several hours of the week to training.

They are driven, determined and passionate about their sport, the same way they are here on cradling in their beds.

On March 27, just will inevitably see him run the 21-km category again in the Chocoma Globe from Fair House 2041 (04822011), where his second half was over in 1:49:56.

Wilfred "Fred" Sytanger
President and CEO, Alaska
NOR Corp.

The Phillips CEO, who moved away from sports last year after suffering an injury that required two surgeries, said his Achilles' heel has all more been volume.

The systems are usually functionally related, he said, 'due to biochemical problems they branch off differentially.'

This year, he plans to increase his running, his personal record 179.1, so he is 49:04 in the 10 km category and 1:56:11 for 10 km.

David Charlton

A triple bypass operation last year set back his running stride by only about 400 km last year. This GTO of a popular chain of hair and beauty salons has a half marathon record of 1:45, 21 km 1:37, and 10 km at 41 minutes.

SM exhibit celebrates Edsa's 25th anniversary

MALIBUERS will have the opportunity to solve the puzzle of the Edin Foundation as "The Mural of Edin" continues its tour of US Mafis, which began last February.

The exhibit, which is based on the book published by Francisco Aguinalde's campaign to dislodge incumbent Martin T. Williams, was launched last Feb. 17 at The Black at BPOCNY North HGA as part of the 2015 Anniversary exhibit tour.

The Wendell Japan-Born and Miyagi Agitate One were the guests of honor in the event attended by government officials, People's Front communist members, and friends and relatives of the Agitate.

The event was highlighted by musical performances by Ryan Capelash and The MCsingers, as well as a chorus of yellow-crowned night herons.

"The inaugural" chronicles the campaign of Mr. Aquino, son of former President Corason C. Aquino and prominent political leader Benigno Aquino Jr., through images by master photographers and accounts written by participants of the actual votes.

Mr. Aquino, like his mother, was drafted by another well-

• ELIOT POITLER has a tremendous impact on your spine. It's not only your posture looking when you are awake and active that matters. According to Eliot del Pre, D.C., nerve and muscle specialist who has successfully combined western and eastern approaches to body manipulation and muscle therapy, every nerve we make goes, goes on our spine. The nerve highway is our body in the spine, and any excessive repetitive motion we do on a daily basis can eventually lead to pain.

From sleeping right to getting a rich homemade mini-facial, here are some tips to help you look and feel better.

FLATTEN YOUR STOMACH BULGES QUICKLY, EASILY
with CoolSculpting

Carrying excess fat in your abdominal areas makes you prone to heart disease, diabetes, high blood pressure, stroke and erectile dysfunction.

It doesn't stop there. Your mood, energy level, breathing and sleeping are also affected when you're lugging extra fat around. Aside from these serious health concerns, unsightly love handles, back fat and flabby thighs make any man appear rounder, heavier and poorly maintained. If you're one of the many who are struggling with stubborn bulges, FORT offers

What is CoolSculpting?
CoolSculpting is the latest US-FDA approved treatment in body contouring. It's ideal for men who need fat layer reduction in specific areas of their bodies such as beer bellies, love handles, fat in your flanks and back, and pinch

Like all other treatments, a FOMM CardioSculpting is non-invasive and it's proven safe and effective.
